Eleventh Annual Convention 1966

The eleventh annual convention of the Numismatic Association of Southern California was a great success in all aspects. It again proved that the finest quality show in the entire country is our own N.A.S.C. Convention. We can all be proud of the fine work the officers and clubs put forth in creating this outstanding show--course, auction, exhibits and educational forums, all had the keynote of Numismatic Quality.

Miss Eva Adams, director of the U.S. Mints, was slated to be the featured speaker at the banquet, but was forced to cancel her engagement at the last minute due to important budget meetings in Washington D.C. Miss Adams sent her regrets to Mr. Singer and wished the N.A.S.C. a very successful show. She said, she hoped to attend our convention next year.

Peggy Borgolte and Jim Betton
Discussing Exonumist Forum.

According to the majority of our ninety three bourse dealers interviewed it seems as if the hobby once more has returned to the hands of the collectors. Noticeably missing were the investors and speculators looking for bags of uncirculated coins; type coins seemed to be in great demand by all the collectors present in the bourse room. Many of the dealers feel that this is a very healthy sign as far as the hobby itself is concerned.

The three day auction was a huge success according to Mike Kliman and Steve Kosoff of Numismatic Enterprises who conducted the auction. Many of the coins brought record prices on the bidding floor. It again gave a strong indication that our hobby is once more in the hands of the collectors.

In conjunction with our convention, the American Numismatic Association held several board meetings. We were privileged have many of the officers and board of governors take part in various convention activities.

Matt Rothert, President of the A.N.A., was the guest speaker and also the installing officer for the incoming N.A.S.C. officers at the banquet held Saturday night February 19th. The largest attendance at any N.A.S.C. banquet was recorded when 316 people attended to see the awards presented to the exhibit winners, and to watch the installation of the incoming officers of the N.A.S.C.

Two of the major highlights of the convention were the Educational Forums presented by the California Exonumist Society and the Society for International Numismatics.

The California Exonumist Society presented Mr. Abe Kosoff, noted Numismatist discussing major changes in our hobby and predicting on future changes that may make the goals of the collector more difficult. His succinct sageing sees our hobby on firmer ground if the collectors continue to insist on quality and Numismatic value. Also keynoting the program was Miss Barbara Rade discussing Art in Coins and Medals.

The Society For International Numismatics presented a slide and discussion program covering type coins and currency of the Far st. Some very unusual and rare items were shown and discussed Numismatic and historical detail. Mr. Yeoman's comment on s forum was, "This is the type of Educational Forum that most nventions would like to present, but very few ever reach the ality of this presentation".

or congratulations and sincere thanks to both of these fine ganizations for helping us to put the true meaning of NUMIS- ATIC into our show.

hibit Display Chairman, Jim Betton said that this was without a uestion the finest turn out of displays in the history of the N.A.S.C. In fact this is the first time any major convention has ever had a turn away exhibitors----over thirty applicants were turned down because there just wasn't enough space available to accomodate everybody. The thirty two judges had a very difficult time trying to select the winners. There were a minimum of five to nine judges for each of the thirteen categories. There were 73 individual competitive displays, 3 Junior, 4 non competitive displays, 5 club displays and 5 invitational displays for a total of 90 displays.

This was the finest QUALITY DISPLAY EXHIBITION that we have ever been privileged to sponsor.

The success of the Information Booth in the Exhibit Room, which was sponsored and maned by The Southern California Ancient Numismatic Society, The Azteca Society, The California Exonumist Society and the Society For International Numismatics, helped give an added quality to our convention. Books and information were made available to the estimated 3000 people who viewed the exhibits.

All in all everyone had a memorable time. We all are looking forward to next year's show which promises to be bigger than ever.

NOTES FROM OUR IMMEDIATE PAST-PRESIDENT

Our Eleventh Annual Convention is now a memory compressed into a few leaves in our History Book joining company with other bright pages recording our other fine conventions.

Nevertheless this was in truth a great Convention - a giant step above the average coin show, so many of which are mistakenly billed as conventions. All the functions, the necessary ingredients of a convention were present and in their purest and most superlative form; Exhibits, the largest number and individually the most outstanding we have ever displayed; an auction catalogued and conducted in our usual tradition of fine auctions; a beautiful banquet programed with excellent taste and enjoyed by our largest banquet attendance to date; a Bourse consisting of 93 dealers from all sections of the United States and Hawaii and including several from Canada; a Club Representative's Breakfast; an open Business Meeting and Election of Officers; numerous Educational Forums featuring noted speakers; an entertaining tour of University City; Registration of which we can be proud; and most important, all these various segments coordinated into a smooth well-oiled presentation second to none.

None of this just happened. It required a tremendous amount of time and effort put forth by a great many people, truly dedicated people and a grateful acknowledgement is hereby made to every officer, every board member, every Club representative, every chairman and committeeman, and every volunteer worker - all of whom were responsible for our Convention's success.

And now in closing may I say that it has been a good year for our N.A.S.C. - our accomplishments have been many and the new pages added to our History Book are surely as bright and shining as those already there.

Presentation

opened the Forum on February 19, at the N.A.S.C. Convention held at the Statler Hotel in Los Angeles, Color slides of Oriental Coinage and Currency were shown and expertly narrated by Lewis Upton and Carolyn Nestrick.

Ms. Pauline New introduced Carolyn Nestrick who identified coins of her speciality: Chinese Cash and included much information of historical, romantic and political interest.

Lewis Upton, first President of S.I.N. and who is recovering from a near-fatal accident with explosives last July and who came direct from the hospital to the meeting, presented to the audience in great detail the numismatic information relating to 35 slides of East Asian coins without any reference to notes.

The third part of the Forum consisted of color slides of Oriental Currency prepared by Hal Woolway, who was not able to attend due to illness, so Lew Upton gave the narration, with very few references to notes.

Much credit should go to Max Wedertz who photographed the material and operated the projector.

With a touch of humor the meeting closed with the usual slide showing the mischievous Red Devil, and the words: This has been a S.I.N.ful Presentation.

Coins on Stamps

By SOL TAYLOR

Since the issuance of the famous Tonga "Gold Coin" round stamps a few years ago, much interest has been focused by the numismatic fraternity upon stamps featuring coins. The recent issues have been publicized in the Numismatic Press. These include the recent Burundi Gold Foil issue commemorating the issuance of gold coins by this former Belgian African territory, the recent Swiss semipostal issues, and the latest issue from the newly independent state of Malawi. However, a search through Scott's Standard Postage Stamp Catalogue, 1966 combined edition revealed many older issues featuring coins in their design. This list may not be 100% complete, but it does cover the field as extensively as can be determined from this source.

Israel commenced its postal issues in 1948 with a set of nine stamps bearing as their main motif ancient coins of Judea. The first six stamps bore representations of the obverses of coins while the three higher values showed both sides of the coins. In 1949, a souvenir sheet was issued for the first anniversary celebration of Israeli postage stamps and the First National Stamp Exhibition, "Tabul" in Tel Aviv. This sheet features four stamps of the 1948 10 mil issue. In 1950 six additional coin designs appeared on stamps featuring coins of Judea of the first century. The same coins appeared on various new denominations issued in 1950, 1952, 1954, and finally in 1960. All these designs bore only obverses of the coins. Many of these coin designs were incorporated in the regular coinage of Israel.

Close on the heels of Israel with coins-on-stamps is another country with a rich ancient culture, Greece. The catalogue shows 28 stamps with coins. The first such issue, in 1937, shows a coin of the Amphictyonic League. In 1955 an issue of stamps honoring Pythagoras shows a coin of Samos with the portrait of Pythagoras.

In 1959 Greece issued a set of ten stamps each bearing the obverse and reverse of ancient Greek coins. They are listed by Scott numbers on the following page:-

Scott Nos.	Scott Nos.
9 - Zues Eagle Coin	644 - Griffin-Square
0 - Athena Owl	645 - Apollo-Lyre
1 - Nymph Arethusa-Chariot	646 - Apollo-Labyrinth
2 - Hercules Zeus	647 - Aphrodite-Apollo
3 - Helios-Rose Coin	648 - Ram's Head Incuse-Square

additional series was issued in 1963 showing the same coins in nine new values. Two postal tax stamps issued in 1956 show coins featuring Philip II of Macedonia and Aristotle.

In 1964 a set of stamps was issued to commemorate the Byzantine Exhibition held in Athens. The low valued stamp, one drachm, featured a Bulgaroctomus coin of Emperor Bagil II.

The only set of stamps specially issued to commemorate a coin exhibition was issued by Peru in 1959. At the first Numismatic Exposition in Lima, a set of two Airmail stamps was presented featuring the first dated Peruvian coin minted in Lima in 1659. The exposition also hailed the 300th anniversary of Lima.

Cyprus featured coins on three different stamps. The first was in 1958 on the 3/4 Pi stamp of the 50th anniversary issue of British Cyprus. The featured coin shows a silver coin of Amathus. In the same issue of Elizabeth II stamps of 1955, the 25 mil stamp shows a coin of Paphos, while in the same series the 500 mil stamp shows a Cyprian coin devices - Salamis, Daphos, Citium and Idalium.

In 1964 Ghana issued a souvenir sheet honoring the fourth anniversary of the Republic of Ghana and in the selvedge of the sheet there was a copy of the ten shilling coin issued in 1958. None of the four stamps in the sheet is related to coinage.

Ghana revised its coinage to the decimal system in 1965 and issued a set of four stamps to honor the conversion. Each stamp shows its new equivalent coin--5 pesewas, 10 p, 25 p, and 50 p.

Portuguese India (Goa) issued a set of 20 stamps showing natural and various Portuguese coins issued from the period Manuel I (1495-1521) to the recent issues. Both sides of the coins were shown on each stamp in bronze, silver or appropriate gold tones.

Liberia featured the Liberty Head obverse of its current coinage on the 25 cent stamp of the 1906 issue.

France issued a set of three precancelled bicolored stamps in 1964 featuring as the main subject a Gallic coin of medieval France.

Bermuda featured its own "Hogge" coins on three different stamps. The first appeared in 1954 on the one shilling stamp; the next appeared in 1955 on the five shilling stamp; and the third appeared the same year on the ten shilling stamp.

Nigeria featured native money on its half penny issue in 1953. The iron ring money called, "Manilla", appears on this issue.

Bulgaria featured its own current one leva silver coin on four stamps of the 1945 issue.

The Greek Island of Crete issued two stamps featuring coins in 1900. The one lepton issue featured a Hermes coin while the five lepta coin showed a Hera coin.

Germany featured one of its current five mark silver coins on a special issue in 1958 honoring the 10th anniversary of the currency reform. The heraldic eagle reverse is shown.

Current coins are featured on the 1960 30 centavo stamp of Ecuador. This stamp is part of a commemorative set honoring the achievements of President Camilo Ponce Enriquez.

Argentina celebrated the 75th anniversary of its mint with a stamp in 1965. The 1881 five peso coin was featured on the design.

On the 150th anniversary of independence Colombia issued a souvenir sheet with four airmail stamps in 1960. One of the stamps, the one peso, features the obverse and reverse of Colombia's first coin.

Switzerland semipostal issues of 1962 and 1964 both featured different coins of early Switzerland. They are described below:

tt Nos.

- 4 - ½ th Oberalden 1732
- 5 - Ducat Schwyz c. 1653
- 6 - "Steer Head" Batzen, Uri, 1659
- 7 - Nidwalden Batzen
- 5 - Copper coin of Zurich
- 6 - Doppeldicken of Basel
- 7 - Silver Taler of Geneva
- 8 - Gold Half Florin of Bern

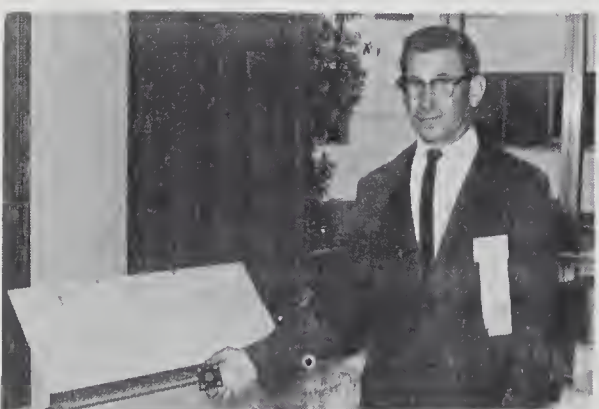

1963, Tonga startled the philatelic and numismatic worlds by issuing a unique set of 13 stamps. They represented the first round stamps; the first gold foil stamps, the first self-stick stamps and probably the largest stamps. Several of these stamps have been issued with new values. They were issued to commemorate the gold coins of Polynesia. The stamps featured obverse or reverse designs of the three gold coins in accordance with the design and value imprinted on the stamp. Not much later, Burundi followed with a similarly designed set of eight stamps. Recently, one of the newly formed Arabian states announced a similar issue of round stamps.

stamp collecting rallying behind new themes: "Space Issues", "Antarctic Exploration", and "Coin Collecting", we can look forward to more "COINS ON STAMPS".

How I Became A Numismatist

By MAC McCLAFLIN

During the year 1955, I was leading the usual normal life, the same as everyone else, working, sleeping and generally enjoying things. My old buddy, Mel Fishel and I generally found something of interest to do, to keep us amused. One day he asked me if I wanted to buy a half roll of commemorative half dollars. I looked at him perplexed and asked what the blazes were they. Not knowing very much more than me, he replied that they were Washington and Carter. After some searching, we found some books that gave us a little information on them, but nothing very much and we soon lost interest.

Sometime later however, Mel came over with a Red Book he had obtained, and then the fun began. First we started the Penny Book. Previous to this time, I had always had the habit of spending my change as fast as I could, so as not to wear out my pockets. Now, I was spending dollars in order to get the change. Each night I would empty out my pockets and put all the coins in a bag. At the end of the week we would search through it hoping to find something worthwhile. Soon we were not satisfied with just sifting through our own change, we were now asking our wives for all the change they had. Then the fever got even worse. Now we were taking our dollars and visiting the markets to get all the change we could. We would then sit and scrutinize every coin for hours at the end, and you can imagine what a strain this was on our eyes. Mel, who used to drive a truck from Los Angeles to San Deigo, began stopping whenever he could and would get from the bank, bags of change.

We progressed a step further. We bought magnifying glasses. At this time our eyes were in a sorry state but our hopes were high. Pennies, nickels, dimes, quarters, everything was of value and of interest. We no longer wanted to go out on the town, now we wanted to save our money. Soon the house was full of books and coins. From then on we saved a lot of coins, some were junk, but we saved them anyway.

That so-called junk is now of some value and often sort-aftered by many. For example, one person I knew who had collected Indian d pennies and then decided a rug was more desirable, cashed the pennies at the bank and bought the rug, without any undue suffering. To me, this was sheer agony until she offered me the bag, which I bought at 10% above face value. My excitement was so great, I could not wait to get home to look at them. I had to pull over the road and reach into the bag. The first few were 1904, 1905, all good to fine. I dipped in the bag again and came up with a 1906 S and a 1909 S. My excitement soared, I could not get home soon enough. That was the beginning of my Indian Head Collection. Naturally, I have had to buy some of the coins in my collection, but my first initial purchase, which was an absolute bargain, gave me many excellent coins.

Once again, Mel fired my enthusiasm by asking me to accompany him to a Coin Meeting, which was something new to us, and which we knew very little about. So we arrived at the Los Angeles Club. When the auction began, I bought a roll of 1955 S Unc. for $6.00. All the way home I called myself a fool for having squandered a whole $6. Now, what a very different story. I call myself a fool for not having bought more. Those were the green years - now it is very different.

What is the outcome of that mild interest in coins that started years ago? Now, both Mel and I are true numismatists in the sense that we are proud of, and enjoy our collections above all else. True, we have given up a few pleasures such as dinners out and shows. Also, I could not go fishing quite so often, but to our idea it has been well worth it. Today, I am beginning to piece my coins together for display purposes, and Mel has one of the prize displays of War Bills, on which he also gives talks.

For the value of the coins money-wise, it would not be just to look over this as of no consequence. In the ten years from 1955, the coins have been a means of saving money which I probably would never have saved otherwise. Instead of saving in just cold cash, it has had the added interest of numismatics. The joy of finding a bargain for a worthwhile and longed for coin, and the knowledge that on the market my collection would bring many times its face value. So long for now, see you at one club or the other, looking for a coin, or selling one to buy another.

Tea Bricks or "SAH"

I can think of no better way to start this article, than to quote from book "A SURVEY OF PRIMITIVE MONEY" by A.H. Quiggen. China was predominantly an agricultural country, with more cultivation to the acre and more intensive cultivators than are to be found elsewhere. It is a vast land cut up by nature and man into isolated communities which for centuries had little contact with the outer world. The configuration of the country discouraged trade, with few natural harbors. There were no profitable trading neighbours within easy reach to foster commercial enterprise.

The land did not produce abundance crops to further trade. Some crops such as silk mulberry and tea were exceptions, both providing "currencies". Barter was the most prevalent form of trade, however grain was (in such simple communities) and still is a standard of value and medium of exchange.

Tea like salt was an imperial monopoly, and it still forms part of the currency between China and Tibet.

Rockhill, who explored Tibet in 1889, describes 400 porters coming and going daily, laden with bricks of tea. There are five types of the "Tea Bricks" some of them being used for currency. The type we have just added to our money museum is of the type used for currency. Dark yellow in color and weighs two and one half pounds, it is well fermented. The wages of workmen and servants are paid with these tea bricks. Tea bricks are more than just currency-they are rupees and they are accepted like silver coin, as legal tender.

Paul Einzig writes in "Primitive Money" (page 109). During the early part of the century, (19th) sheep were largely displaced as currency by bricks of tea. Owing to the strong demand for it throughout Asia, it is generally acceptable. It is divisible for small payments. The value of goods sold in markets and shops was reckoned by tea bricks. During the 19th century tea bricks were given by the Chinese to the Mongols to pay for troops. During the 1870's in Urga a sheep could be purchased for 12 tea bricks.

With one more quote I will, (I feel sure) have established that tea bricks have (or had) a firm place in numismatics.

M.P. Price in "Siberia" page 208 and Henning Haslund in "Tents in Mongolia" 279, 168 & 31, quote the following: A camel cost 120 tea bricks, a Chinese pipe two tea bricks. Extensive credit transactions were made with tea bricks. Tea bricks did have several disadvantages. It was very bulky and heavy. It took a camel or two if your transaction was extensive.

In his trip to Lhasa Norman Thomas was delayed for three weeks by his porters, when he ran out of tea bricks to pay them with. They refused to accept any other form of payment. The entire pilgrimage was held up until they could send back for a new supply of the tea bricks.

NOTE: I feel most fortunate that we now have one of the finest of tea bricks. It was donated to us by Leo A. Young of the Oakland Coin Shop. Leo is and has been a collector of "odd and curious" for years. We are indeed lucky to have such fine numismatists in our N.A.S.C. Leo is President of the Pro. Num. Guild. Thanks from all of us. - K.M.
